Disclaimer:

We provide a mono, line level, audio signal to the videographer. The "XLR" connection is located at the back of the orchestra section, last row, center seat. It is the responsibility of your video company to have the ability to connect to the "XLR" jack with the proper impedance and be able to control the audio level into their equipment. The signal sent from the house console is audio that has been mixed for the live audience which may or may not be desirable for a "studio quality mix" that can be used for professional reproduction.

Our technical staff (561-207-5906) will be happy to answer any questions you or your videographer have regarding the professional recording quality of your show.
