What is a Sample Key Indicator?

These subtopics define the specific skills associated with the individual EAPs.

http://www.palmbeachstate.edu/x16724.xml lists the current EAPs and their Sample Key Indicators;

http://www.fldoe.org/profdev/FEAPSRervisions/pdf/6A-5.065.pdf lists the EAPs as amended 12/10;

PORTFOLIO EVIDENCE FORM SAMPLE

- Name: Teacher, Ima
- Date: June 24, 2010
- Course: EPI 0006
- Educator Accomplished Practice:
  - #10 Planning
- Sample Key Indicator: #4 Provides comprehensible instruction based on performance standards required of students in Florida public schools.
- Entry Title: Lesson Plan: The Magic Seed
PORTFOLIO EVIDENCE FORM SAMPLE

Description: This first grade language arts lesson focuses on listening skills and sequencing. Students listened to a story that explained the steps necessary to grow vegetables from seeds and completed a sequencing activity.
Teacher Competency: My ability to develop a lesson that provided comprehensible instruction through listening and hands-on activities that met Florida standards and grade level expectations helped develop critical listening, recall, and sequencing skills. In addition, in this lesson I practiced accessing students’ prior knowledge by talking about the characteristics (color, shape, texture) of vegetables and what they knew about growing vegetables. By doing this orientation activity before I read the story to the students, I was able to determine that my students could not identify all the steps involved in the process of growing vegetables from seeds.
PORTFOLIO EVIDENCE FORM SAMPLE

- Student Connection: In the listening activity, the students listened to a story about how to grow vegetables from seeds. Through discussion and questioning, students were able to recall the sequence of events that took place in the story. To demonstrate their comprehension of sequencing, students arranged sentence strips in the correct order. This sequencing activity developed the students’ ability to critically listen and recall important events or steps in a process.

“Rubric” is another word for “score sheet.”

Each required element of the artifact is listed individually on a grid and evaluated on a Likert scale: 3 = On target, 2 = Approaching target, 1 = Missed target.

A % scale and letter equivalent is indicated; an instructor may also choose to evaluate the artifact as pass/fail.

The completed rubric with instructor signature is documentation required for program completion. Keep your evaluated artifacts and their rubrics in a safe location!
WHEN ARE MY ARTIFACTS EVALUATED?

- Each artifact assigned for each EPI course must receive a passing grade to pass each course, regardless of your average in the course.

- Each artifact and each signed artifact rubric must be saved in your portfolio as you progress through TCP.
WHEN ARE MY ARTIFACTS EVALUATED?

- Your exit interview cannot be scheduled until your completed portfolio has been assembled.

- Your CT-133 documentation (required before you can apply for and receive your professional teaching certificate) cannot be submitted to FLDOE until your portfolio has been reviewed and approved at your exit interview.
YOUR PORTFOLIO DOESN’T STOP HERE!
