

Rewarding careers in education will be the topic of Palm Beach State panel discussion

College's Career Center to host local educators in free event open to the public

(Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. – March 12, 2012) Thinking of a career in education? With the goal of helping students and others make informed career choices, Palm Beach State College's Career Center will host a "Careers in Education" panel discussion on Monday, March 26 from 9:30 to 10:45 a.m. at the BioScience Technology Complex, Room SC127 on the College's Palm Beach Gardens campus, 3160 PGA Blvd.

Six local educators, who represent career paths ranging from teaching to school administration to counseling, will offer advice and tips for achieving a fulfilling career in education. They are:

- Linda Guzman, exceptional educational specialist, Department of Exceptional Student Education, Palm Beach County School District
- Theresa Hartl, school counselor, Seminole Ridge Community High School
- Maria Lloyd, assistant principal of curriculum, Seminole Ridge Community High School
- Perry Stokes, social studies teacher, Carver Middle School
- Jennifer Williams, librarian, St. Joseph's Episcopal School
- Merri Wright, director, Center for Early Learning, Palm Beach State College

The event is an example of the many complimentary career planning services offered through the Career Center offices on each of the College's four campuses.
