Car and motorcycle show set for May 15 at Palm Beach Community College

The free event will highlight the college's automotive and other programs

(Lake Worth, Fla.—May 2, 2005) More than 100 stylish cars and custom motorcycles will be on display at Palm Beach Community College in Lake Worth May 15 as part of an open house for the College's industrial trades and health sciences certificate training programs.

The 2nd annual Car & Motorcycle Show/Career Seminar will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Education and Training Center located at the southeast corner of Lake Worth Road and Congress Ave. It is free and open to the public.

The event will showcase the instruction and facilities for students training for careers in automotive service, automotive collision, diesel, welding, machining, cosmetology, surgical technology, LPN and other health programs. There also will be information on two new certificate programs that will start this fall —Heating, Ventilation and Air Conditioning (HVAC) and diesel technology. Tours will be provided and instructors will be on hand to talk with anyone interested in learning more about the programs, many of which lead to high wage, high demand jobs.

"It's a good way to draw students to our programs and to let them know we exist. Many people don't know we have these programs," said Luis Tamayo, program manager for the automotive, diesel and commercial driver license programs.

Prizes will be awarded for the top 20 cars and top 10 motorcycles. For more information, call 868-3863 or (561) 868-3864.
