Palm Beach Community College names new Foundation director

(Lake Worth, Fla. – Jan. 9, 2006) – Suellen Mann has been named executive director of the Palm Beach Community College Foundation, the fund-raising arm of the College.

The Jupiter resident was chosen after a nationwide search. She came to PBCC from the Jupiter Medical Center Foundation where she served as director of development for more than five years. During her tenure, she was responsible for the planning and implementation of programs, projects and activities designed to seek, receive and administer charitable contributions to the JMC Foundation for the benefit of the local, nonprofit hospital.

“I’m very excited to join a prestigious organization such as Palm Beach Community College. I believe in the power of education. It changes lives and enhances our community,” Mann said. “I look forward to working with my colleagues at the college and the community.”

Prior to going to the JMC Foundation, Mann worked for more than two years as development director for the Crohn’s & Colitis Foundation of America - Gold Coast Chapter. She also has worked as regional marketing director/vice president for NationsBank/Bank of America, regional marketing director/vice president for Southeast Bank/First Union and in various positions including director of corporate communications for The Bank of Miami.

Mann holds a bachelor’s of science degree from Barry University and an M.B.A. degree in international business from the University of Miami.

She is a member of the Association of Hospital Philanthropy, a board member of the Palm Beach Chapter of the Association of Fundraising Professionals and serves as an adjunct professor at Barry University’s Port St. Lucie campus.

Mann is an active member of the Jupiter Kiwanis and the Palm Glades Council of Girl Scouts of America.
