FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Ceramic Artist Sana Musasama to hold lecture and workshop at PBCC Gardens campus

(Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. – Feb. 4, 2008) Sana Musasama, an internationally known artist and lecturer, will discuss her work and demonstrate how she creates her work in clay at Palm Beach Community College's Eissey campus on Feb. 21-22.

An extensive world traveler whose work incorporates social and humanitarian causes, Musasama holds an M.F.A. from Alfred University and a B.F.A. from City College of New York. Among her many honors are: Swarthmore College Heiman Fellow, Hunter College Presidential Faculty Teaching award, New York Foundation Fellowship and Anonymous Was a Woman award. She is currently an artist-in-residence at Dartmouth College.

"My development as a ceramic artist has been animated by an impulse to explore the world," says Musasama. "Enriched by this exploration my work emerges from and exists in a domain of imaginative freedom that is deeply hospitable to diverse influences, concepts and techniques."

Musasama will lecture on Thursday, Feb. 21 at 7p.m. in Room BB 111, showing slides of her work, how she researches each project and the inspiration behind them. On Friday, Feb. 25, Musasama will give a hands-on demonstration of how she conceptualizes and creates her work in clay and ceramics.

The lecture and workshop are free to all PBCC students and staff. For all other participants the fee is $30. To make a reservation or to learn more about the event, call Professor Nazare Feliciano at 561-207-5017 or e-mail felician@pbcc.edu.
