Background investigations are essential to ensure a solid agency foundation. The agency is responsible for ensuring that investigations are conducted by personnel who have the proper training, skills, and abilities necessary to perform the unique activities required of a background investigation.

This course is designed as an overview of conducting candidate backgrounds for the officer, investigator, or non-sworn personnel with limited experience in this area. Students will gain an understanding of the problematic, legal, investigative, and evidentiary aspects of background investigations. The investigative techniques and procedures taught in this course are general guidelines.
