NUR 1213

Course Description

This course further develops the concepts for nursing practice. The emphasis is on concepts such as adherence, fluid and electrolytes, perfusion, glucose regulation, cellular regulation, reproduction, stress/coping, anxiety, mood and affect, infection, clinical judgment, communication, and health care organizations. The concepts are presented from a lifespan and health-continuum viewpoint. At the completion of the course the student should be able to identify situations that place persons at risk for alterations, recognize common alterations, and plan interventions for promoting and restoring health across patient populations in a variety of settings.

Course Outcomes

1. Explain what the role of the nurse in the holistic care of patients, families, and communities while acting within professional standards.
2. Demonstrate safe quality care and teamwork within health care organizations to improve health outcomes for diverse populations in variety of settings.
3. Utilize knowledge from the disciplines of nursing, the sciences, arts, and humanities to cultivate nursing judgments in various nursing situations to improve quality of care for patients, families, and communities.
4. Develop a sense of curiosity to inform learning and nursing practice utilizing evidence-based practice and technology.
5. Practice clinical decision making using evidence-based practice within a family and community context with an emphasis on recognizing common alterations to promote cultural, spiritual, and ethical quality care of diverse patients.
6. Initiate inter-disciplinary collaboration to promote relationship centered care within a culture of safety.
7. Explain the progressive growth of patients and families to promote and restore health, integrity and self-determination.